10 Per Cent Increase In OPEC Oil Prices

vization of Petroleum Export-ing Countries raised crude oil prices by 10 per cent today with the new price frozen to June 30 next year, Venezuelan Mines Minister Valentin Her-mandez-Acosta said.

The increase takes effect

The jump from the current $10.46-a-barrel price to $11.51 is expected to have little immediate affect on Canadians, where consumers are cushioned by a federal import compensation program.

Under the program, administered by the energy supplies allocation board, Ottawa pays the difference between the world price and a frozen domestic price of $8 a barrel.

In the U.S., however, the raise may mean American motorists will pay about one cent a gallon more for gasoline starting Oct. 1 if the increase is passed on to con-sumers directly. Figures released in Ottawa by the allocation board this week show that the additional cost to the federal govern-most $13 million between how and the end of the fiscal year.

The increase will cause no significant change in the balance of the fund, estimated to cost $1.3 billion in the year ending March 31, a board spokesman said.

Canada imports and exports

Canada imports and exports its crude oil at current world prices while domestic users pay the $8-a-barrel price set by the federal government July 1.

An export charge levied on exports of 750,000 barrels of oil a day from Western Canada to the United States is used to subsidize the cost of the 800,000 to 825.000 barrels im-

Board officials say income from the tax on 750,000 barrels of oil exports a day off-sets the cost of import payments on an equal amount of Funds to compensate the remaining 50,000 to 75,000 barrels of daily imports comes from general government revenues. A $1 price increase adds between $9 million and $13 million to the cost between the cost of the fiscal

States dropped to 500,000 barrels a day, cutting sharply into income for the program. The 10 per cent increase mise agreement between the diferent OPEC nations. Saudi Arabian Oil Minister

Gloves No Longer Foil Yard

LONDON (AP) - Scotland Yard's top fingerprint sleath, after laboring 17 years on a unique theory, says gloves leave prints too and they can be used to track criminals.

He said gloves—be they leather, rubber or cloth—leaye faint prints that can be traced to their owner.

Commander Gerald Lambourne, head of the Yard's 350-man Fingerprint Section who began his "gloveprint" research in 1958, wrote in the latest issue of Police Journal:

"From the constant handling of objects such as door knobs, banisters, shop doors. rails on buses on which people have deposited large quanti-ties of perspiration, a glove soon becomes impregnated with grease and dirt.

"Consequently when a glove comes into contact with a smooth, hard surface, a layer of this grease is sometimes deposited in much the same way as an unexpected finger will leave a fingerprint."

The commander said dusting powder reveals the "gloveprints," and some of them already have aided detectives investigating rob-beries and break-ins.

After consulting virtually every glovemaker in Britain, including makers of golf gloves and rubber house-wives' gloves, Lambourne learned that every glove is different in some way.

"The materials it was made from; the way it was put to-gether; i.e. hand-stitched, knitted, molded; embossing; perforations; the contours and creases formed when worn constantly, and accidental damage caused by the wearer."

wearef."

But Lambourne refused to be more specific about his new crime-detection techniques, saying: "I don't want to give all our secrets away."

Lambourne, who joined the police force in 1947, wrote that he first hit our the idea of that he first hit on the idea of gloveprints after being told as "Sorry, there are no clues. The man was wearing gloves."

Wrong. It's the latest thing in long-distance moving. It's called Domestic Container Service.

WHAT'S THAT, YOU SAY?

Domestic Container Service is a form of unitized moving. Shippers and transport companies have been doing it for 20 years. Now *United Van Lines has introduced this accepted concept to domestic moves. It results in on-time loading and delivery and eliminates unnecessary handling of furniture.

THIS NEW WAY OF MOVING:

- DECREASES COSTS
- PROVIDES BETTER SERVICE
- REDUCES DAMAGE
- REDUCES FRUSTRATIONS. UNEASINESS

this is the way we move you long distance now:

- 1. All household goods are packed and prepared for transportation in the normal manner;
- 2. On loading day United's container loading specialists arrive with speciallydesigned containers, clean, Sanitized and locked; 3. The ease of loading will please you, and if you wish, a seal will be provided that you
- yourself can seal the container doors with:
- Your container shipment is gently handled by fork-lift from the local containertrailer onto the highway container-trailer;
- United's central dispatch, with computer-control speeds your container to destination city on an air-cushion-ride container trailer;
- 6. If storage in transit is required, your container is not unloaded but stored with
- supervision at a United member's location;
- Delivery at destination is accomplished in the same manner as loading, by container specialists. You can break the seal on the container doors.

The Police Settlement

er Friday morning knowing their fear of a police strike at Sunday midnight. After late evening discussions Thursday night, city council and the Victoria police union agreed to submit their dispute to binding arbitration. Had the police not possessed the right to strike the result would have been the same — binding arbitration. Which brings up another point - should the police have this right? This newspaper feels the

How far have we gone down the road to insanity when a police union official says that if RCMP officers were called in they would be welcomed as strikebreakers?

for being thoughtless and irresponfrustration is understandable to a point, given city council's actions. Council appoints the police board as its agent. The board reaches an agreement with the union based on does council (mainly Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen) renege on the deal. The provincial Labor Relations Board rules that the police Ergo, the union has to start bargaining all over again with council. The provincial labor code shouldalso shoulder some of the blame for this confused situation. It is so full of loopholes and vague definitions that LRB rulings on just who or what is the city's bargaining agent become necessary.

But council was also foolish in thinking it could get away with paying Victoria police less than their brother officers in Saanich. It is arguable whether or not Saanich's settlement with its policemen was too high - $16,200 per annum for a first-class constable with three years experience - but that is past history. The standard had been set and Mayor Pollen notwithstanding, the Victoria officers have a mental bloc in accepting less than what a suburban force

This brings up another point. How long is the Greater Victoria taxpayer going to stand for every tin pot municipality doing its own isolated bargaining? In Mayor Pollen's opinion the Saanich settlement was too high and would prove troublesome for other core municipalities. How right he was about the latter. If ever there has been a good argument for amalgamation this labor dispute is it. One municipality will always be played off against the other, resulting in settlements above the national average, as long as each municipality goes its singular way on such matters.

What can we learn from this desultory experience? First and foremost, the police should not have the right to strike. They hold together the fabric of our tenuous civilized community. A threat to strike from this quarter is not a simple labor dispute. It puts the whole community in jeopardy. It isblackmail against the whole community, not just the community's representatives. While Mayor Pollen should be congratulated for his laudable fight to ease the taxpayers' burden, he was up against a stacked deck in this case because of the earlier Saanich settlement.

Under the circumstances, he should have gone along with the police board settlement. A solution has been eked out this time. Arbitration should be incorporated into future police negotiations, rather than being a midnight compro-

The real culprit is inflation, something a provincial administration can only marginally affect through spending and its own wage settlements.

Unfortunately, over the last three years the government has left me with the feeling of being only half-hearted in its bargaining with its own people.

Still, a "catch-up" period was inevita ble considering mounting inflation and the stingy salary policies of the former administration. Even raising the mini mum wage to $2.50 per hour is not out of line with other wealthy provinces. In Quebec it is $2.60. Alberta's minimum is $2.50 and Ontario's $2.40.

As the governor of the Bank of Canada said earlier this week: "The current wave of inflation was not initiated by a marked acceleration of wage and salary increases. It was the other way around."

But, the governor was careful to add, new wage and salary settlements continue to be disturbingly large. So large in fact, that the food and pulp industries in this province can no longer afford annual wage increases averaging 18

Did he jump or was he pushed? What will he do now? (My contribution to the national pastime of finding suitable employment for Turner is to predict that he will be called upon to lead the Liberal Party of Ontario in a do-or-die attempt to keep Stephen Lewis and his New Democratic "socialist hordes" from gaining power at Queen's Park.)

It might seem right to place a moratorium on further comment for awhile. But one aspect of the Turner resignation has so far escaped discussion—his decision to go quietly—without fuss, furore, protest, above all without explanation.

The style of the slinky exit is the American way of resignation. The British do it differently, the prolitical culture of the slinky exit is the control of the slinky exit.

. , 'disturbed'

The case of Winston Churchill (resigned 1915, prime minister 1940) is the classic one, the case of Harold Wilson (resigned 1951, prime minister 1964) is the current one. But resignation

The American way of leaving office reflects the ethos of The American way of leaving office reflects the ethos of team loyalty. "For most Americans", write Weisband and Frarek, "it comes easily, usually after only a few years in high office. If they want to leave a situation they find ethically untenable, they simply declare a need to replenish health, purse, or family life which has been exhausted in the public service. Often these standard reasons are part of the truth. But even if untrue, gentlemen swallow hard and recite, as convincingly as possible, the litany of bland resignation".

The Turner resignation conforms to this model almost perfectly. "I have come to the conclusion that after almost four years in the finance portfolio and almost 10 years in the Government of Canada I should return to private life". Nothing is here about federal policies that have led to double-digit inflation figures and double-digit unemployment figures. Nothing is here about a Bank of Canada that is bent on deflating the economy while central bankers all around it are bent on reflating theirs. Nothing is here about the need—or not—for wage and price controls. Nothing is here for tears, nothing to wail or knock the breast, nothing but well and fair

Believe that, believe anything. "Since you did not base your resignation on any policy disagreement", the prime minister's "Dear John" reply lost no time in informing him, "I will not seek to hesitate in the months ahead to seek your

If a course of action is perceived to be so wrong, so unethical or ill-advised, as to warrant a person separating himself from those embarked upon it, is it not wrong—and undermining of faith in the whole system—to leave in such a way as to give the public the impression that all is well?" Turner is not the first member of a Trudeau cabinet to resign as a result of dissatisfaction with its economic policles. He is only the first member to resign without an adequate explanation of why he decided to get out.

For those of you with short memories, or who may not have passed this way last Sat-urday, I took the bit in my teeth and pre-dicted a great week for Turkey Vultures over Victoria. That was the one I won; it was a great week for Turkey Vultures over

But I should have let it go at that and quit while I was ahead because after setting me up with their timely appearance last week-end, the vultures proceeded to let me down with a resounding thump by letting the air out of my second great prediction — that they would never fly across Juan de Fuca.

It ell began last Saturday afternoon high above a small garden on Robertson Street where Ron and Joy Satterfield were enjoying the summer-in-September offerings of the weatherman. Joy happened to look up and,

Now it doesn't take much in the way of birds to get Ron's attention—he's got quite a reputation with the birds around this town and when he'd finally drawn a bead on the they turned out to be Turkey Vul-dawks' they turned out to be Turkey Vultures—66 of them—in three or four large groups. And they were all drifting west!

So far, so good, Except for the drifting west—I'd figured they'd be drifting east—I was smelling like roses, particularly when Ron read Stray Feathers later in the day.
So much for Saturday; Sunday was quiet.
If the birds were moving they were missed If the birds were moving they were missed. Nobody reported seeing them.

But then came Monday.

All that day I'd been keeping an eye out for the vultures but up 'til three o'clock had only a Peregrine Falcon, a Red-Tailed Hawk, a Cooper's Hawk and a truck load of gulls, to show for my efforts. But at three, things to happen. First I noticed some large

Leaving the phone to my wile I concentrated on those birds. There were between 25 and 30 of them, gliding northeast on set wings and before they got out of range over Victoria I'd pinned them down as Turkey Vuitures.

They looked as if they'd just come down over the Malahat and had made the left turn over the Malahat and had made the left turn.

But back to the 'phone; it was Peggy Goodwill and she was full of news — of Turkey Vultures. Peggy and her husband Vic

According to my crystal hall, they'd seek the easy island-hopping crossing to the main-land, using the land-spawned thermals to keep them aloft, rather than risk the unpre-

How to be sold on a car.

Within the next month, you'll be exposed to dozens of new cars. All of them will clamor for your attention. Some guidelines follow for new car buyers, plus a few sales points on behalf of Honda.

First, your needs.

Buy what matches your needs. You need carrying capacity if you car pool, or haul loads, or take car trips. You have a different set of values if you zip around the city. And if you do both, that's a whole other need.

Many two car families are discovering what happens with two small cars. They save money twice.

Honda Civic is an excellent city car, able to snap up tight parking spaces. Yet Honda Civic carries four adults in comfort. And delivers top mileage. Thousands of Honda Civic owners have also discovered the car's ability to cruise the open highway with ease, and with even better gas mileage.

Remember, your car money goes farthest when you buy what you need, and no more than that.

Real news and stale news.

When you look at the new models, they look new. So, one of two things is true. Either it's the same old design dressed up for 1976.

Or, it's a front wheel drive car. With transversely mounted engine for more room in the passenger compartment. With independent suspension on all four wheels. With rack and pinion steering. It's good with gas, which the salesman will tell you immediately.

Honda Civic has been built and runs precisely that way. For three years now.

The old base price tease.

This is how you're accustomed to buying a car.

A base price. Then certain items cost more, as much as $1,000 more to and a full load. And it doesn't get what you want.

Honda Civic is sold another way. You pay a reasonable price for a reasonable car. You have a choice of standard or hatchback model. A choice of standard or Hondamatic transmission. A choice of five colours. That's about all your choices.

Honda has already researched and proven what a car needs to function efficiently in Canada. For instance, Honda Civic is tuned to start easily all year. A rear window defroster is standard. Washable carpeting is standard, to easily remove muck in winter and spilled food in summer.

Honda doesn't offer a choice of engines. The standard engine is plenty powerful enough to carry you need a catalytic converter, running efficiently as it is. Besides, converters are expensive to fix and require special fuel.

So when you look at a Honda Civic price, that's the price. Completeness is standard.

Money, money, money.

The purchase price of a car is only the big pill. Lots of little ones follow.

Add up increasingly expensive insurance, tune-ups, depreciation, oil and gasoline costs that last as long as the car does. Maybe longer.

When you look at all the costs, Honda Civic is a lot easier to swallow.

Before you sign.

Think about the dealer network. Honda has Civic dealers coast to Read all the specifications you can. And ask around, about all cars.

You might consider the Government's recommendation to use small cars. They save gas, save natural resources and save wear and tear on the driver.

Your best guide is you.

This year, all the manufacturers will hammer away on two sales points. The price of the car, and the miles per gallon the car delivers.

You'll find Honda Civic compares favourably to all other cars because of completeness for the purchase price and good mileage. The whole idea of Honda Civic is a car that performs efficiently in today's conditions.

Today's conditions are crowded roads, high speeds, more expensive gasoline. And the feeling that you'd like to do more in life than buy, take care of and feed a car.

So, figure your needs. Figure what you'd like to get for what you can pay. Figure what it'll cost you to buy and keep the car. And while you're out shopping, we think you'll come around and get sold on a Honda Civic.

A Person's Past Doesn't Count In Light of Christ's Love

By REV. J. A. DAVIDSON

Michaelangelo Caravaggio a bold and revolutionary Itaaround the end of the six teenth century, was once com-missioned to paint a picture of St. Matthew for the altar of a church in Rome. He was in-structed to show Matthew writing the Gospel which has his name, with an angel to be shown giving him inspiration and direction as he writes.

and direction as he writes.

Caravaggio was an uncompromising young artist, and he painted Matthew as the Gospel record suggested to his artist's imagination. He showed a bald, roughly-bearded, rudely-clothed barefooted old man. He is writing in a book which he holds rather awkwardly, and as he writes.

By Matthew's side the artist painted a youthful angel: the angel carefully guides the old man's hand as a teacher guides the hand of a child learning to write. This picture sounds a note of realism.

When the artist took his picture to the church and affixed it to the altar, the authorities were shocked by what they deemed to be great disrespect to Matthew, the disciple of Christ. They indignantly rejected the painting and or-

In his second painting Caravaggio showed a rather different Matthew. This one has a more benign look, self-assured and well-scrubbed; and his head is crowned with an appropriately delicate halo. MANY CHANGES DURING WHITLOW'S DEANERY

Dean Brian Whitlow celebrates 20 years as dean of cathedral's life, there have Victoria's Christ Church Cabeen many structural thedral this month.

Worship in the cathedral has been greatly enhanced under his leadership. In 1964 service, based on the Church of England's series number two rite. At first this service was attended by just a few families, now the weekly con-gregation has almost reached the numbers attending the main 11 a.m. service.

The cathedral was the first church in the diocese to begin this family service which is now common throughout the island. The depth of spirituality at the cathedral has also been enhanced by the introduction of regular sacramental confession — for the first time in the parish — and similarly, the sacrament of holy unction — the church's ministry of holling the church's ministry of healing — has been introduced.

Yes. It's true!

Our Pioneer Plan pays you interest Every Month.

FOR PEOPLE 65 OR BETTER, A BANK PLAN DESIGNED EXPRESSLY FOR YOU.

Like all other banks, Bank of B.C. has high-yield passbook savings accounts. But now, for our PIONEERS, we've made some changes. First of all, we pay interest to your account every month

THEN WE ADJUST YOUR INTEREST ANNUALLY. The most attractive feature of our PIONEER SERVICE PLAN is the exclusive, built-in Inflation Fighter Savings Account. To help you keep pace with rising costs, we adjust the Interest paid to your Inflation Fighter Savings annually.

Here's how it works: As the Cost of Living goes up (Based on the Consumer Price Index, as published by Statistics Canada), we give your interest a raise! Last year the adjustment rate was 12.4%. So, if you had a total of $100 interest paid to your account during the year, we would have paid you an extra $12.40.

IT COSTS NOTHING TO JOIN. AND WE GIVE YOU ALL THESE EXTRA SERVICES FREE.

You may open your account with any anfount. Your money is available whenever you need it. There are no penalties or lock-in features. And we give you all these services at no extra charge:

*Free personalized cheques. *Unlimited cheque writing at no cost.

*Bill payments (at participating branches) without charge. *This now includes payment of B.C. Telephone at most branches.

*Money Orders and Travellers Cheques may be purchased-in any available currency-without service charge.

* Transfers (from any of your Bank of B.C. accounts) without charge.

* 50% reduction on safety deposit box rental (subject to availability) or equivalent safekeeping services.

Match ... And Mate For Spassky

MOSCOW - Boris Spassky, whose fortunes went sour after he lost the world chess title to Bobby Fisher three years ago, says he has won a match against authorities and will marry a pretty French secretary. Spassky, 38, said he was told Friday he could marry Marina Stcherbatcheff whenever he wished. The couple promptly set Tuesday as their wedding date.

VANCOUVER — Dianne Hartwick, 24, said Frîday she will seek the presidency of the Social Credit party at its an-nual convention Oct. 30-Nov. 2 here. Miss Hartwick, said she has been involved in Socred organizing since she started knocking on doors in election campaigns at the age

WOODSTOCK, Va. — David Kennedy, 20-year-old son of the late senator Robert Ken-nedy, was fined $50 by a county judge here Friday after pleading guilty ot a charge of reckless driving. Kennedy was charged July 12 on a highway near New Market, Va., after a state trooper miles an hour.

Schultz, 63, has been appointed to the Supreme Court of British Columbia, to fill a new position. He has been senior judge of the Vancouver county court. Judge William Trainor, 52, was promoted to the post of senior judge of the LOS ANGELES - "Certainly I loved my wives; other-wise-I wouldn't have married them," actor Cary Grant said Friday in response to a print-ed report that his four marriages were loveless as far as he was concerned. "I'm 'embarrassed," the star added. "I may have to call up the ladies and apologize." Grant said the misconception arose from a McCall's magazine article which quoted from an autobiographical article he wrote 13 years ago, saying his wives "all left me."

LOS ANGELES - Sammy Davis Jr. has been in a Century City hospital since Tuesday after he walked in "on his own two feet" and requested treatment for neuritis. The 40a final diagnosis on the enter-tainer's bad left leg has not been made, but that mainly "he (Davis) is fatigued. He should be out of the hospital the early part of next week," Blankford said.

WHERE DO WE DRAW LINE ON LIFE

OTTAWA — A seemingly harmless statement that everyone has a right to have healthy, normal children is dangerous, according to geneticist David Suzuki.

"It's dangerous beacuse it implies that all unhealthy, unnormal children have no right to live — and who has the right to draw the line?" he asked delegates at a conference on health and the law.

Modern science has completely stripped the law and individual rights are fast disappearing, Suzuki added.

Modern techniques of monitoring a fetus within its mother make it possible to know everything from its sex to possible heredity diseases it may be carrying.

"If we begin to assess the birth of children on a cost-benefit basis — and hereditary defects are a great drain on our society — what does that do to the essence of human

"Where do we draw the line with what is not desirable — mongolism, albinism, hair-lip, diabetes, shortsightedness. Will we begin to worry about the size of our baby's nose, its sex, IQ or eye color?"

Suzuki also said no reputable geneticist

Suzuki also said no reputable geneticist accepts the idea that blacks are genetically inferior to whites, or that peoplle are genetically set at a certain level in life.

"It's honsense to believe that a ditch digger is a ditch digger because his heredity so dictates and chances are his children will have the same potential," he said.

Suzuki said genetic adaptations of biological warfare can be brought to levels so sophisticated that they can wipe out one race of people and leave another race in the same of people and leave another race in the same

Homosexuals Will Walk LA Beats

Edward Davis, the city civil service commission ruled Friday he must accept homosexual police officers—but they should be discreet homosexuals.

The commission voted unanimously to approve new standards for police employment, eliminating homosexuality alone as grounds for rejection of applicants or dismissal of officers already on the force. I have no intention of stating how much anyone can afford for a house. This is a very personal decision. There are guidelines of monthly averages that lending institutions use for housing expenses. But — like the "height/weight" charts printed on scales - these are only averages Don't hold back if you feel you can exceed the guidelines. When you are willing and sufficiently disciplined to economize on other expenses, vou can get a better house than the average calls for. A good house may seem costly, but the rewards are well worth it. Investing in a house that's a little more expensive gives you an ex-cellent inflation hedge while your whole family enjoys a better place to live. And often, the resale opportunity is

To any organization a view of the future is the basis from which to plan, and planning is increasingly a key ingredient to successful enterprise.

If we stay on our present course, known supplies of petroleum, natural gas, and some key minerals are expected to run out in the next decade to several decades.

These are illustrations of future needs and problems which are now coming into focus.

In order to find alternatives or to develop solutions to these and other merging needs and problems we must anticipate them far enough in

International Chess Master PROBLEM By I. Zaldo, Hungary BLACK: 9

White to play and mate in two moves. Solution below.

EN PASSANT The first published chess problem was composed by the Calioh Mutasin Billad, who lived in Baghdad in 833.

Our present chess notation (1.P-Q4) was used for the first time in a chess book published in 1737 by the Syrian master Phillip Stamma, who lived in Paris at that time. Stamma also was the first to classify chess openings.

By DAVE ANDERSON

MANILA, Philippines (NYT) — Only the backdrops change. The voice remains the same. So do many of the words. In the mod Folk Arts Theatre that juts into Manila Bay, the voice of Muhammad Ali droned into the microphone.

"You are watching the greatest fighter of all time," the voice said. "Let's have a hand." When the 3,000 spectators didn't instantly burst into applause; the voice deepened and demanded, "let's have a hand. The spectators obliged, in deference to the World Heavy-weight Champion. But outside, shaped by the wind that has swooped for centuries across the vast bay from the China Sea, the palm trees along the shore of the Philippines swayed inland resembling tattered green umbrellas blown inside cut.

It was as if the palm trees were leaning the other way in protest of boxing's financial distortion of history.

For his title defence against Joe Frazier next week, Ali has been guaranteed $4.5 millios, with the Philippine government supplying $3 million.

When the United States was ceded the 7,107 islands of the Philippines in 1898 following the Spanish-American War, the Apparently the palm trees have more perspective than the people, the annual salary of 70 per cent of the Filipino population is $133, less than the price of a 1,000-peso ticket. But typically, Ali fascinates the Filipinos, as he fascinates virtually accurate.

With virtually no advance notice, the 3,000 spectators had

The ring was erected in front of the stage where Trini Lopez and Helen Reddy will appear soon. On the stage was a tall mirror, perhaps eight feet high, and when the champion appeared, the first thing he did was glance in the mirror. Quickly, he shadow-boxed. Or to be precise, reflection-boxed. Then he hit the heavy bag and sparred six rounds.

Throughout the workout, his entourage included an experience beauty given Vernice Powers in a long course.

her to President Marcos as his wife."

In a Manila newspaper, Veronica was identified as his "wife, Kahila," which is understood to be the new Muslim name of Belinda, the mother of the champion's four children.

Belinda's arrival made things interesting Friday. She flew in, and then right out again, giving rise to speculation that Ali's marital status might be in trouble.

Belinda was quite upset when she wasn't met at the airport by Ali and the pair later were reported to have engaged in a shouting match. It wasn't the first hint of trouble. Belinda flew to Zaire last October before Ali's fight with George Foreman, then flew home in a similar hulf when she found

Foreman, then flew home in a similar huff when she found that her husband had been seeing Veronica. For several months Veronica was known only as "cousin Veronica" as she followed the champion on location in Zaire, Cleveland, Las Vegas and Kuala Lumpur, where whispers de-

They haven't played much since. Friday night they sat idle in New York while the Red Sox moved two games closer to their first chance for a league pennant since 1967.

Playing in the fog at Boston, the Red Sox got shutout pitching from Luis Tiant and Canadian Reggie Cleveland and swept a doubleheader from Cleveland Indians by identical 4-0 scores.

The Orioles, who lost two games of a three-game series with Detroit Tigers to the weather earlier in the week, had a doubleheader washed out at New York's Shea Stadi-

It's Back to the Farm for Lindy

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel will bid farewell to baseball at the end-of this season after 21 years in the major leagues.

McDaniel, who has pitched the last two seasons for Kansas City Royals, announced his retirement Thursday.

McDaniel said he will go back to farming with his father at the family farm two miles north of Hollis, Okla.

"Baseball has been about the only life I have ever known," McDaniel said. "It has given me thrills to last a lifetime, financial security,"

The 39-year-old Lindy, named after Charles A. Lindberg, went from the farm dierectly to St. Louis Cardinals in 1955. He only was in the minors for a month in 1953 when he was sent to Omaha in the American Association, and friends come first.

50 Years Doesn't Make Folk Any Less Friendly ...

By LIZ HUGHES Times Staff

Mary Ralfs will retire from Eaton's general office Oct. 1, exactly 50 years, to the day, after she started as part of the clerical staff on the fourth floor of the Douglas Street building.

Things have changed in those 50 years For one thing, the floor Miss Ralfs works on is now called the fifth floor, even though it's exactly in the same place as when she started work in 1925 on the fourth floor.

* * * "I guess that's called progress," she says.

Another change is the name of the company. On Oct. 1, 1925, Miss Ralfs started work for David-Spencer Ltd. which was bought by Eaton's Dec. 1, 1948.

The business office has altered too.
"At one time everything here was done with pen and ink and now you don't even see a bottle of ink around anymore.

"Things are easier now," she says. "There are different ways of doing things and you have to change with them.'

The one thing that's still the same as the day she started is the friendliness of the people she works with.

ance in his title bout next week with Joe Frazier. She took a flight home hours after arriving.

The incident threw the Ali camp into confusion tive days before what looms as the fliggest bout of his career. The fight is scheduled for Wednesday (10:45 p.m. EDT Tuesday) at the indoor Philippine arena.

Belinda, Ali's second wife and mother of his four children, flew into Manila early Friday amid reports that her husband was keeping almost constant company with another woman, Veronica Porsche of Los Angeles, who was being introduced as his wife.

Ali did not meet Belinda at the airport. She was reported to be furious when she reached the hotel, driven there by a representative of promoter Don King.

Accosting Ali in his 21st-floor suite at one of Manila's most-fashionable hotels, she was reported to have said: "We have something to talk about."

A shouting match ensued, said a member of the Ali party, and there were indications of a scuffle. A member of the hotel staff reported some damaged furniture in the suite.

"I am going home to any four children," Belinda was heard to say as she stalked out of the hotel into a waiting limousine, which took her to the airport.

There she caught a Philippine Airline flight to Honolulu en route to Los Angeles.

en route to Los Angeles.

An hour after her departure, Ali was in his room eating a Chinese supper and watching a horror movie on a large screen. With him was Veronica, sitting on a sofa, and two other friends.

"It is ngbody's business." he said when asked by a re-porter about his wife's action. "Now you may get out of here."

The champion was reported to have said to Belinda before she walked out: "Look what I have done for you; you should have no complaints."

"What have you given me- four kids?" Belinda barked All was said to have responded: "I am the boss, I got along well before I met you. I have been good to you."

If you'd planned to push on right away, change your plans. There is always another bus or train, but there isn't another Avenches, a charm-ing village about 45 miles north of Lausanne. It is very literally an outdoor museum. Yet, as throughout most of Switzerland, the visitor will find modern structures sprin-kled aournd the "old town"

Avenches is more than just a quaint medieval town. In fact, its history is linked with one of history's greatest generals, Julius Caesar.

Caesar and his legions took this region from the Celts and named the town Aventicum.

Later, as the region was colonized. Aventicum grew and onized, Aventicum grew and prospered. By the 2nd century it was the administrative and cultural centre of Roman Switzerland and had a population of more than 20,000.

It is interesting to contemplate how much wine and cheese have in common. Both need aging and both are among the oldest foods known to mankind. Many cheeses and wines originated in small villages while others started in cities and many became more famous than their birth-places.

more famous than their birthplaces.

These are only some of the faschating facts pointed out in the 4-page folder Cheese and Wine. The folder helps you to get to know the characteristics of the most common wines. For instance, Chablis is less tart than Rhine Wine and is wonderful with a delicate souffle.

Claret is sweeter, lighter bodied and lighter colored than Burgundy. It's great with fondues and cheese casseroles.

Please, Mr. Ralph Nader Don't Inspect Go-Cart

WASHINGTON (WP) - My 13-year-old son, Stuart, has finally realized his dream of go-kart. And I am praying (among other things) that Ralph Nader doesn't come to inspect his vehicle, which is unsafe when parked inside the

The fear I feel when my son revs up his 3½ horsepower engine is retribution for having backed down on my firmest principle in child rearing: that all children should be self-propelled at all times. But when, last April, the proposed birthday gift of a 10-speed bicycle produced a crocodile tear and a choked, "But I wanted a go-kart," my concrete resolve turned tem-

A well-thumbed Popular Mechanics magazine was pro-duced, and Stuart pointed to the small-print ad offering an "assemble-it-yourself" go-kart kit, And so, from a com-pany in Pennsylvania he or-dered a Super 3 kit with wheels, a 334 HP engine, a

Unfortunately, the drilling of over 30 precision holes of varying sizes and angles required, at the very least, a drill press, one item we had overlooked when stocking our do-it-yourself basement tool box. A welding company agreed to take the job, promising it on Friday. (Welding companies always promise things on Friday, but they never specify which Friday.)

The next day they called with a disheartening report. The go-kart frame was insecurely welded, they said, with only two spot welds on each joint instead of four. The motor mounts were bent. And the drive shaft was too large to go through the metal tub-

Stunning fashions for night and day . . .

We do hope you got to see the Symphony Fashion Show on Thursday . . . with all those stunning fashions from Miss Frith's!

". . Obviously, it was too late for us so Miss Frith's gave us a private showing on Monday . . . which positively left us gasping!

. Now just to digress a moment . . . Maybe, like us, you've sometimes complained that you never can find all these delightful fashions when you go into the store . . . can't see the forest for the trees! . . . But just ask one of the excellent salespersons to show you some of their goodies! She won't pressure you in any way, and you'll be under no obligation to buy . . Now for the clothes: No way can we describe the many smashing fashions . . but we'll tell you the long gowns are elegant, soft, fluid, with subtle draping and many with touches of lurex . . . Classics with a fresh new look

Classics with a fresh new look ...
Jaeger is almost a generic name for classics ... but just because classics are timeless they don't have to be stodgy ... as witness the fall Jaeger shipment which just this week arrived at Eaton's ... You'll find a delightfully fresh approach to classics ... a younger look than ever before ... but with an all-over sophistication which will delight the smart woman of any age! ... To mention just a few of the new Jaeger clothes ... A grey flamnel suit with rust stitching zip front and batch pockets highlighted with little rust barrel-shaped buttons ... Skirt is flamed and, like all the new Jaeger skirts, fits beautifully around the hips ... A brown and white tweed suit has the same style of skirt ... There's all the new Jaeger skirts, fits beautifully around the hips ... A brown and white tweed suit has the same style of skirt ... There's a go-everywhere tweed coat ... and a plain camelhair and wool shirt front coat with tie belt, in a rich vicuna shade ... And wait till you see the co-ordinated machine-washable wool outfits! ... Gored skirts ... slacks ... striped, belted cardigans ... pullovers with turtle necks ... and U-necks to carry out the layered look ... One outfit is aubergine, bone and oyster ... another is spruce green with green camel and white in the striped sweater ... Tie-neck blouses in green, cream or purple check on check complement this one ... And there's a black pure wool boucle skirt which fits like a dream! ... Wonderfully versatile, all these new Jaegers! ... Eaton's Townhouse, 382-7141, loc. 367.

Not obvious color but emphatic makeup is the vital acessory

It's, a funny thing about hair ... with proper car it'll behave beautifully for months on end ... then suddenly, almost overnight ... it seems to turn limp and droopy ... the set no longer holds, and we can barely stand the sight of ourselves! ... This is the time of year when such an occurrence is commonplace ... and if it's happened to you, we've some sound, money-saving advice: Make an appointment for a permanent at the House of Glamour some time during October ... All during this month H. of G. permanents and support waves will be given at a very worthwhile price reduction ... Experts will analyse your hair and recommend the best type for you ... Thre are special permanents for fine and hard-to-manage hair ... style permanents for the natural curly look ... special solutions for bleached or tinted hair ... We might also add, all solutions used are fresh stock (very important for a successful perm, and probably a point you hadn't thought of) ... and every permanent is unconditionally guaranteed ... So take this opportunity for new beauty at a saving (and maybe try a smart new hair style while you're at it!) ... House of Glamour, 1175 Douglas St., 386-6188.

Submarine Lab Proposed for Seamount

By AB KENT, Times Staff

Dawn has broken over the Pacific seaboard and the biologist wakes for a new day of field work.

He looks out a cabin window and notes by the plants waving to and fro it is a little gustier than the day before; he must take more care not to be swept off the mountain as he collects his specimens

But the day is bright, he ought to be able to see 30 feet ahead of him as he goes about his work.

After breakfast with the other scientists, he checks his gear, dons a wet suit and scuba apparatus and steps outside the vestibule of the self-contained

Immediately he is tossed and tumbled 20 feet to the edge of a crevasse, then flung back again before he is able to connect his lifeline and hook lead weights to his feet.

He'd almost been hurt that time, but what's new, he reflected. Danger is a daily companion working on the crest of a basalt peak 108 feet

Imaginary, yes. But not fantastic. The image is based on a proposal to turn the top of Cobb Scamount into a permanent submarine laboratory run by a joint Canada-U.S. group of government, academic and private industrial innovators who recognize the role of oceanography in taming and tailoring "inner space" for man's future needs.

Cobb liès off Victoria's doorstep, in international waters less than 200 miles from the entrance to Juan de Fuca Strait

Cobb lies off Victoria's doorstep, in international waters less than 300 miles from the entrance to Juan de Fuca Strait.

It rises nearly 8,000 feet above the ocean floor — higher than Vancouver Island's highest mountain.

It's in the high seas, but closer than Station Papa, the patrol area named by Pacific weatherships whose home base is Victoria Harbor.

on both sides of the border.

Information collected there could improve knowledge for today and the future in such fields as weather forecasting, pollution, hydrography, national defence, mariculture, predicting wave effects, ship design, fisheries, mining, oil drill-

Victoria is ideally situated as a jumping off point or staging area for activities involving any of the above because Cobb is located at 46 degrees 45 minutes north, 130 degrees 50 minutes west. It was discovered in 1950 by the U.S. fisheries vessel John N. Cobb. Estevan Point, at the middle of Vancouver Island's west coast, is the nearest land in North America, 237 miles from Cobb, or 29 miles less than the closest U.S. point, Cape Johnson, on the Olympic Peninsula.

"It is a beautiful opportunity to study, with U.S.-Capada participation." observed John Case, president of Case Existological Laboratories Ltd., Victoria.

logical Laboratories Ltd., Victoria.

His interest is less than altruistic as Case Labs make a business of naval architecture and oceanographic technology.

But Case is chairman of a Canada-U.S. committee charged with the non-paying job of designing a fixed mast that will jut from the sea atop Cobb Seamount for the purpose of supporting meters, gauges, recording and transmitting devices as a first step in the joint use of Cobb for scientific ends.

Leadership role

As a Canadian by choice, Case wants to see Canada take

As a Canadian by choice, Case wants to see Canada take a leadership role and put up at least half the funds required for initial development such as building and placing the mast.

He also thinks an even closer seamount, Bowie, only 94 miles off Graham Island in the Queen Charlottes, has greater potential for Canada because it not only lies directly on the oil tanker route from Alsaka, but would be in territorial waters when the international line is extended to 200 miles.

If enough funds were available, Canadians could proceed independently in turning Boxie into what Case calls "a na-

The plan is to install a string of these 50-ton $900,000-$1 million buoys from the Gulf of Alaska to lower California to give constantly updated information on wind speed and direct tion, barometric pressure, air temperature, water tempera-ture at seven depths and wave heights.

Buoys are 30 feet high, lighted and carry automatic

The first ones will be complementary to weatherships, but Case predicts they will eventually replace the ships and will be cheaper to maintain.

Still, they are expensive at about $1 million each, and by using both Cobb and Bowie as mast sites, NOAA could save $2 million, or have two buoys to deploy elsewhere, Case suggests.

His assignment as chairman of the Seattle-based Sea Use

Council mast committee is directed to Cobb Seamount, about which scientists and engineers alike want to know a great deal more. Only limited research has been done there in the

The proposed permanent station on Cobb would be a worthwhile contribution to the International Decade of Ocean Exploration, in which the U.S. National Science Foundation is a participant, Case submits. Experience shows masts anchored to the ocean floor have a high failure rate. More innovative design can overcome technology is involved (in putting up a mast), but we've got a lot to learn," he said.

Designers must know how to predict loads, strains and forces from extremely powerful wirds, and waves.

Three designs tried by the department of environment for a tower near the entrance to Halifax harbor have failed. The Bedford Institute is attempting another as part of a two-year program to study air-sea interaction.

If the latest structure is successful, it could be adapted for use on Cobb, Case speculates.

Although towers are more expensive and more difficult to install than buoys — besides being vulnerable to severe storms — instruments installed on fixed structures provide more reliable information, more accurate and useable mea-

Case believes the successful mast will be both simple and cheap. Simplicity and flexibility are keys: "The more things you have in the ocean, the more problems . . . Mother Nature is never rigid, always flexible. When you try to resist youneed strength; if you're flexible, you don't."

He cites two examples, one in nature, the other a product of his own firm. The palm kelp is a small plant able to resist the most violent storms; the giant plastic bags built for CEPEX, the Controlled Ecosystem Pollution Experiment in Saanich Inlet, survive surface and undersea turbulence be-

But Canada's west coast will be particularly exposed to and California.

Bowie and Cobb seamounts are both on the shipping lane and in the zone where weather systems affecting the continent are born. Their location is inescapably convenient.

Numerous government, and private interests in Canada are aware of the potential, not the least of which is the pollution-conscious B.C. government.

Ben Marr, associate deputy minister of water resources, represents the province on Sea Use Council.

"B.C. is vitally interested in all things maritime along our coast," he said.

This, in turn, can be related to the stresses and strains on ship's hulls, Marr said. "Any improvement in ship design must be to our advantage from an environmental point of

So far, efforts to stabilize equipment on Cobb Seamount have had dubious success. The University of Oregon tried to place a cylinder-like tower in a crater during the 1968 season, but it collapsed in the wracking surge of seawater to which Divers placed anchor cables for surface buoys by means of massive steel ring bolts, but most of them were carried away and those that held were bent out of shape.

Some turbulence appears to weather-induced, varying some turbulence appears to weather-induced, varying with the depth of water and surface conditions. Seamount seems to be swept clean by surges of storm waves, with the most severe conditions occurring in winter and spring.

Cobb through Sea Use Council: "The question of military use has never come up at any meeting I've attended."

B.C.'s technical representative on the council is Dr. Tim Parsons, of University of B.C. Institute of Oceanography, who is also director of the CEPEX project in Saanich Inlet.

Meetings have been held mostly in Seattle but there have been gatherings here, in Portland and in Hawaii.

Council members include the states of Washington, Oregon, Alaska, Hawaii; the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, U.S. Maritime Administration, the U.S. Navy, U.S. Coast Guard and Environment Canada.

There have been five voyages to Seamount by the University of Washington and the National Science Foundation, the most extensive in 1956 when 500 miles of soundings made, 34 samples of material taken and 10 hydrographic stations occupied in a single season.

Since 1950 there have been oceanographic cruises to Cobb in 1952, 53, 56, 66, 67, 72, 73 and 74. Seamount's most valuable potential is likely to be a Uvic biologist Dr. Jack Littlepage appreciates the value of shallow water in mid-ocean for the placement of recoverable instrument packages, called RIPs.

But in UVic biological research there are at present too many other priorities to permit the luxury of programs at Cobb, he said.

Similarly, limited funds at Environment Canada make Cobb somewhat beyond reach for ongoing programs involving tidal research. West coast tidal officer Willie Rapatz said if the budget permitted he would be delighted to participate in further studies using a permanent gauging station on the Seamount.

His branch is already engaged in a study of offshore tidal effects and has had monitoring instruments on five different northeast Pacific seamounts including Cobb and Bowie, aug-mented by two RIPs on the ocean floor off Tofino. Little is known of tidal action at sea. The theoretical sub-ject has been based on investigation of tides at the obvious, point, where the sea ebbs and flows ashore. Instruments located at sea will help determine type and range of tides in the north pacific, Rapatz said. Last year gauges were placed on Cobb, Bowie (135 degrees 40 minutes W. 53 degrees 20 minutes N.): Patton deg. 40 min. W., 56 deg. N.), and on Union (132 deg. 50 min. W., 49 deg. 40 min. The big powers are firmly established exploiters of sound as a weapon and a tool of espionage.

The globe-girdling Russian trawler fleet is possibly the world's largest mobile listening post, and is probably responsible for dropping sealed caristers containing hydrophones off the casts of Iceland, California and other likely places in order to keep track of Western submarine movements. There are probably some of these canisters lying off Vancouver Island and the Queen Charlottes, which are visited regularly by Soviet fishermen. The next assignment of the controversial Hughes ship Glomar Explorer is reported to be to sweep hydrophonic canisters off the California coast.

Meanwhile, research goes on. Sound is the most effective way of finding a submarine because water is an ideal conductor and carries noises, astonishing distances.

There are so many background raises, however, that highly skilled sonar operators are needed to sort them out and identify them; to pinpoint which are made by sea creatures, which are due to other natural causes and which are made by ships, submarines and projectiles.

The subject has grown so sophisticated that sounds from a particular submarine can be catalogued as belonging to no other, like a thumbprint, and used to identify the same vessel wherever in the seven seas it happens to be picked up on a listening device.

Our objectivity in viewing has long since become established over a wide range of choices. Favorites include nature, archaelogical and historical documentaries, and from classical theatre to M.A.S.H. and baretta.

Having been ardent fans of CBC 'radio's golden years—especially the unequalled excellence of the Sunday night Stage drama series, if has been a continuing disappointment to me that CBC television has fallen' so far short of that stature.

What was missing in the Emily Carr? Locally the production has been scolded in print for being an incomplete, not al-together truthful portrait. Which is a valid criticism as anyone who knows her story would agree. Much that would have shed light on her character (especially those aspects vital to her painting style) was left out.

And that is a factor of greater importance, I feel, than the distorted image of her isolation.

One could excuse the latter perhaps on the grounds of artistic licence on the part of director-writer Nancy Ryley.

As a painter selects certain telling features from a landscape and rejects what he considers weakens the mood he wishes to convey, so Ryley, one could argue, may have wished to concentrate on the essential isolation that

The major gaff was created by CBC's promotion department in pinning the grossly inaccurate "definitive" label on the product.

In the second half the production had some genuinely moving moments but the first half tended to become static and underdone dramatically.

Victoria actress Margaret Martin was as believable as the production allowed her to be but she is certainly an accomplished enough actress to be heard as well as seen, at least now and then.

Ryley seems to have considered that the fact that Martin costumed and made up, presents a very reasonable likeness of Emily Carr, was all that could be expected.

Refugees Arrive

PARIS (AFP) — About 1,500 South Vietnamese refu-gees are arriving in France each month and the figure is each month and the figure is growing, the government reported. Education of young refugees, many of whom are orphans, has been handled satisfactorily, except in regions where schools already are crowded, Rene Lenoir, secretary of state for social affairs said. But the "very large task," of integrating adult refugees into French society remained to be done.

ENTERTAINMENT BUIDE

EVERY EVENING — BUTCHART GARDENS' ROMANTIC NIGHT LIGHTING, FEATURING THE FABULOUS SUNKEN GARDEN AND THE SPECTACULAR ROSS FOUNTAINS, IN THEIR MAJESTIC "BALLET TO THE STARS." As darkness takes over, a thousand hidden lights combine with the moon and stars, the hills, trees and shrubs, lakes, lily ponds and fountains, to create a fairyland softly scented by the flowers. Unusual! Indescribable! This alone is worth coming to see.

BUTCHART GARDENS. KNOWN THROUGHOUT THE WORLD FOR THEIR INCREDIBLE BEAUTY . . . EVER CHAMGING, ALWAYS LOVELY! — Skillful planning, constant replanting, dedicated gardeners pooling their ideas and knowledge, keep them that way week after week, season after season. Developed from an old abandoned limestone quarry over half a century ago, they have grown to become one of the world's most unusual, written-about, talked-about, admired attractions.

Butchart Gardens Sparkling Entertainment which interact continuously and produce all forms of existence on earth.

The Chinese, ancestor wor-shippers, believe that the souls of their deceased arcessouls of their deceased ancestors howered over their own tombs as well as their descendants' dwellings. If the tombs of ancestors had good "Feng. Shui" (in harmony with nature) their spirits would be comfortable and their descendants prosperous; but if the tombs were in discordance with nature, their restlessness would be reflected by the adversity of their descendants.

"Yang" is expressed as a lofty mountain range, symbolically called the "azure drag-on", and the "Yin", as a lower range called the "white tiger".

The most ausplicious model of "Feng Shui" topography. Lai continued, is a secluded spot where these two energies converge, interact vigorously and are kept together in abundance and harmony by sur-philosophical, religious, astrological, cosmological, mathematical and geographical contence on earth. Mountain chains are indications of these two life-giving energies. The "Yang" is expressed as a

"Then it suddenly struck me that no traditional Chinese would ever choose a site for a tomb without first studying its 'Feng Shui'." Lai said.

He decided on a new course of action — firstly to find a site in the Swan Lake area which would best fit an ideal "Feng Shui" model, and secondly to verify, through land registry, that the association had at one time owned the had at one time owned the latt "Feng Miterally literally when it moves its breath produces the "Yang" or male energy, and when it rests its breath produces the "Yin" or female energy.

ADVERTISERS DO YOU ANIMAGES

· I DON'T KNOW, WHAT DO YOU MEAN -"DO I HAVE AN IMAGE?"

A good advertising image is a mental picture that reflects the kind of merchandise or service being offered for sale. For example: A quality furniture store should LOOK like a quality furniture store not a bargain hunter's paradise. And a budget priced store should always look like what it IS -- so that it attracts the kind of people who are look ing for the kind of merchandise it sells.

YOU MEAN THE RITZ SHOULDN'T LOOK LIKE JOE'S DINER?

That's exactly what we mean. And Joe's Diner shouldn't look like The Ritz either

HOW DO I GET AN IMAGE?

Well, first, you decide what kind of store you are - what sort of people you're appealing to, and then you design all your advertising to fit. You stick to the same style, so that people recognize your ad as YOURS as soon as they see it.

. WHAT'S THE ADVANTAGE?

Well, like we said - you attract the right kind of customer to begin with. You're not going to sell a $900 dining suite to someone who's looking for a 79.95 kitchen set anyway, so why waste your advertising dollars? And people who want elegant dining facilities are going to be disappointed if all you serve is chili-burgers for 1.69

ANYTHING ELSE?

Yes. By seeing your company advertise in a consistent manner, the public learns to gain confidence in YOUR firm. It establishes YOU in the mind of the people as a reliable, ongoing firm that knows its business — one that is going to be there to stand behind what it sells for years to come.

BUT I DON'T KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT DESIGNING ADS. THEN WHAT?

That's what your two daily newspapers can do for you. We have a team of sales people who've been in the business a long time. They are trained to advise you on your budget. And, backing them up, is a team of artists and copy-writers who are trained to design an advertising campaigh that will reflect your image and up your profits by increasing your business at a sure, steady rate.

WHAT IS AN ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN ANYWAY?

That's a planned series of advertisements designed to do a specific job. It's the only way to advertise effectively. You establish your goals; our account representative brings them to the creative people, who work out the best way to reach your target. They use their imagination and their knowhow to think up something especially for you

HOW DO I KNOW I'LL LIKE IT?

You're given an artist's rough of your ad campaign so you can discuss it with others in your firm, and with your account rep. before you start the series. And re-vamp if necessary. Then, you get proofs of your ads after they've been typeset and the art is in

• HOW DO I KNOW I CAN AFFORD IT?

Because your account rep. knows your business; he knows what your advertising budget should be, based on your volume and what your cost-to-sell figures should be. So, when the creative department designs your ads, these figures are borne in mind so that the amount of space you buy fits in with what you can afford.

BUT ISN'T IT EXPENSIVE TO HAVE THIS SPECIAL TREATMENT?

It costs no more than just buying space. Our creative team has books and books of headings, borders, drawings, sketches, and many different type styles to utilize. They are creative people who can put these things to good use for your benefit at no extra charge. They'll make up a series of ads that reflect the image you want to create, so that your ads are YOURS and YOURS ALONE.

TORONTO, September 25th—The Chinese used to bind little girls' feet so they would remain tiny forever. In the name of beauty they really developed a foot problem!

Now we have different ideas of beauty. With our casual dress and outdoor style of living, beauty begins with bare, healthy-looking feet. There is no need to hide your feet because of ugly corns or callouses. Dr. Scholl's Zino Pads and specially medicated discs give you immediate relief from discomfort of corns and callouses in 48 hours. Just place a Dr. Scholl's adhesive Zino Pad over the corn or callous and get beautiful—feet first.
